Perspective 3: Asylum Patients Memorial – View East from Trellis

Benches located under the trellis look out to the Asylum Patients Memorial Garden. The garden includes stonework, inscribed with the patients' names, leading to a shallow contemplative reflecting pool. The original Hawthorne Asylum bell is located in a bell tower at the north end of the garden. A series of interpretive art pieces telling the story of the asylum patients is located along a pathway that meanders through the garden, edged by groupings of plant species brought by early pioneers.
