

A performance-based design decision-making framework contributes to systemwide networks and regional outcomes.

It starts with a well-defined project need and clear objectives.

