

Regional Mobility Policy Update

Stakeholder and public engagement - Spring 2021

Spring 2021 engagement will seek input on how to measure mobility in the region.

Through recent transportation planning efforts and the Regional Mobility Policy update scoping processes, community members and stakeholders have told us what is important about how and why they move around the region.

Based on this input and feedback from two workshops with the TPAC and MTAC in 2020, five key transportation elements were identified as integral to how we view mobility in the Portland region.

Now, we need to identify more holistic ways to measure these elements that address the region's mobility needs and priorities.

This spring, Metro and ODOT are engaging policymakers, practitioners, community leaders and other stakeholders to help shape the proposed elements and measures to include in the updated policy.

Input from this engagement will be shared with regional decision-makers as they work together to develop the recommended outcomes and measures. In June, JPACT and the Metro Council will be asked to direct staff on the measures to be tested through case studies this summer. Staff will report the results of the case studies to stakeholders and decision-makers in Fall 2021. Staff will continue to engage TPAC and MTAC in developing a recommended updated Regional Mobility Policy and action plan for public review and discussion early next year by JPACT, MPAC and the Metro Council.

Potential Mobility Policy Elements

Access - All people and goods can get where they need to go.

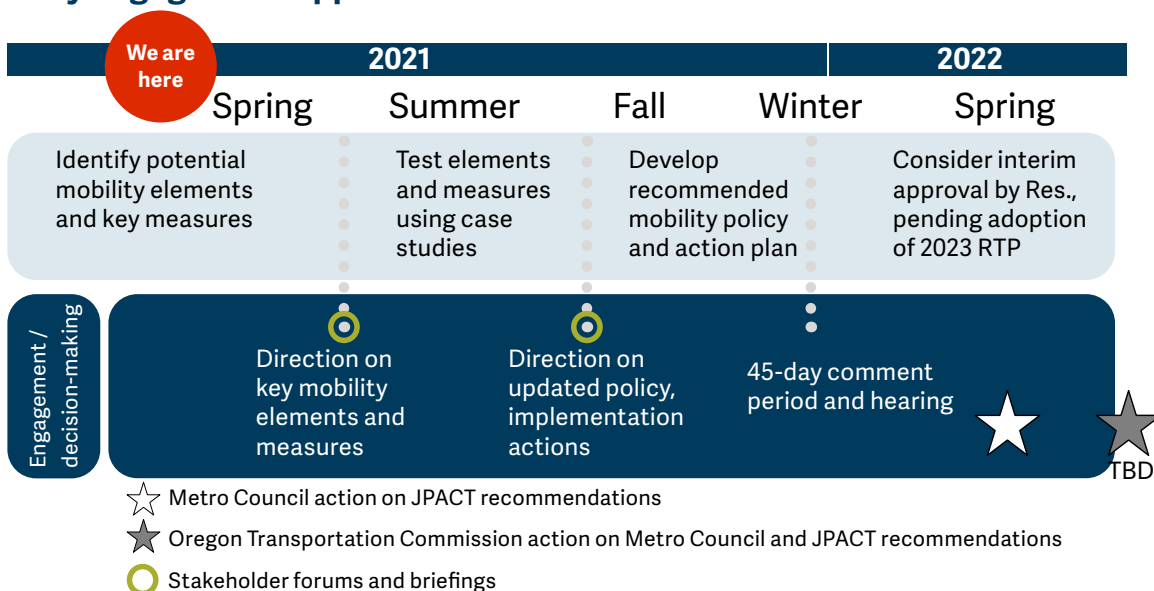

Time Efficiency- People and goods can get where they need to go in a reasonable amount of time.

Reliability- Travel time is reliable or predictable for all modes.

Safety- Available travel options are safe for all users.

Travel Options- People can get where they need to go by a variety of travel options or modes.
