Hattie Redmond

N Interstate Avenue - Portland - Home Forward - Urban League of Portland

Home Forward and the Urban League of Portland, the state's oldest civil rights and social service organization, have come together to provide hope and stability for people of color experiencing chronic homelessness. Hattie Redmond will provide safe housing for 60 formerly homeless individuals. The proposed four-story, 34,000-square-foot building will feature an array of services to help folks regain purpose and dignity living in an area they may once have called home.

An on-site team will include a resident services coordinator, case managers and peer support specialists. Urban League, an organization that serves and advocates for the African American community in Portland, will rely on its success with their Project HAVEN permanent supportive housing program and will integrate trauma-informed, culturally specific, and client-centered input into the building design, financing and programming. A team of housing specialists and case managers help each resident maintain housing stability by supporting individual needs, whether it is teaching life skills, balancing a budget, or attending a medical appointment.

"Meeting resident needs is our overarching priority," said Leslie Crehan, senior project manager, Home Forward. "People who transition from homelessness need to feel safe and secure, and to have access to amenities that make their life easier. Their new housing must offer them the privacy they can't get on the street and encourage the hope they have for their future." Sixty generously sized studio units will accommodate individuals and couples. "Our goal is to make these studios feel nice and roomy," Crehan said. "Generous windows will bring natural daylight and views to the units. Community building is also important, so we'll have common rooms, a community kitchen facility, outdoor areas and other amenities that bring residents together," she continued.

Ideally located on busy North Interstate Avenue and steps from North Lombard Street, the building is also adjacent to an established, quiet neighborhood. With limited parking required, a small parking lot will separate the property from the nearest neighbors. Landscaping will soften outdoor spaces and serve as a buffer to provide additional privacy.
