

Chestnut Grove Memorial Garden at Lone Fir Cemetery

About Metro

Metro brings people together from across greater Portland to preserve farms and forests, protect water and wildlife, and create communities people want to call home.

Led by an elected Council, this unique government gives Oregonians a voice in land and transportation, garbage and recycling, parks and nature, the Oregon Zoo, and landmark places – like Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall and Lone Fir cemetery.

Chestnut Grove Memorial Garden opened in 2013 for the placement of cremated remains in Lone Fir Cemetery. The memorial garden is situated near the middle of the cemetery, north of the Macleay Mausoleum and west of the Soldier’s Monument.

Lone Fir Cemetery, nestled in the heart of Southeast Portland, is one of the city’s oldest cemeteries and the area’s second largest arboretum. Over 30,000 people are buried here, including some of the city’s most notable residents and historical figures.

Metro staff members are trained to offer customized, culturally sensitive options for burials and cremations. Casket burial spaces are also available at Lone Fir Cemetery.
