

Application: 2019 Metro parks and nature bond oversight committee

Do you love parks and natural areas? Do you want to support conservation and racial equity by helping Metro fulfill its promises to the people of greater Portland?

Metro is looking for individuals who are deeply committed to advancing racial equity and have experience in areas such as finance, conservation, land acquisition, accessibility, tribal sovereignty, and other topics to serve on the Natural Areas and Capital Program Performance Oversight Committee, an independent community advisory committee to provide oversight of capital investments in parks and nature.

Since 2021, the committee has worked to keep Metro accountable and transparent in its use of capital funds from the $475 million 2019 parks and nature bond and the parks and natural areas levy, which raises over $19 million a year. Voters overwhelmingly approved both measures. The committee provides transparent oversight of the 2019 bond measure by reviewing implementation and confirming that it is in alignment with the voter approved bond goals and purpose to ensure that taxpayer funds are used responsibly.

Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis through January 31, 2024 with Metro Council appointing at least 3 new members by early Spring 2024 to serve on the existing committee. Please contact parksandnature@oregonmetro.gov with any questions or request for accommodations.

Bond and committee description

The bond measure supports projects that protect clean water, healthy habitat and access to nature. Any project funded by the bond must fulfill three criteria: advancing racial equity, climate resilience and community engagement. The measure was developed through engagement with a wide range of community members.

The 2019 parks and nature bond measure supports the following programs.

<https://www.oregonmetro.gov/public-projects/parks-and-nature-bond-measure/background>

- Protect and restore land ($155 million)
- Local parks and nature projects ($92 million)
- Nature in Neighborhood capital grants ($40 million)
- Metro parks improvements ($98 million)
- Walking and biking trails ($40 million)
- Large scale community visions ($50 million)

Application: 2019 Metro parks and nature bond oversight committee

Independent community oversight is essential to Metro's transparency, accountability and delivery on promises to voters in each of its funding measures. To date, the oversight committee:

- Reviews progress of the bond measure's goals and projects.
- Ensures that the implementation of the bond measure protects and restores clean water and habitat and connects people with nature.
- Ensures projects fulfill the criteria of racial equity, community engagement and climate resilience.
- Provides oversight on investments from the parks and natural areas local-option levy.
- Works with staff to develop a set of metrics that will evaluate bond measure performance.

Membership

In 2021, the Metro Council appointed 19 committee members who reflect a broad range of personal and professional experience. The committee will also reflect the diversity of the region. The Council seeks a mix of representatives who collectively demonstrate:

- A commitment to racial equity, social and environmental justice, diversity and inclusion
- Experience, skills and knowledge in finance, land acquisition, conservation, construction, environmental law, working lands and tribal sovereignty and other related topics
- Personal, lived experience with how Metro decisions impact people of color, the disability community, and the urban Indigenous community
- The ability to work collaboratively with people of diverse perspectives and experiences
Connections with historically marginalized communities in greater Portland understanding of the geographic and demographic diversity of the region

Committee member commitments

- Three-four times a year, attend two hour meetings (currently virtual with the potential for at least one in-person or hybrid meeting per year).
- Spend an additional one to two hours preparing for meetings including attending informal committee working groups held between formal committee meetings as needed for additional committee discussion with each other and Metro staff.
- Serve up to three two-year terms.

Historically marginalized - A limited term that refers to groups who have been denied access and/or suffered past institutional discrimination in the United States and, according to the Census and other federal measuring tools, includes African Americans, Asian Americans, Hispanics or Chicanos/Latinos and Native Americans. This is revealed by an imbalance in the representation of different groups in common pursuits such as education, jobs, housing, etc., resulting in marginalization for some groups and individuals and not for others, relative to the number of individuals who are members of the population involved.

Other groups in the United States have been marginalized and are currently underrepresented. These groups may include but are not limited to other ethnicities, adult learners, veterans, people with disabilities, lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender individuals, different religious groups and different economic backgrounds.
